Sean Cantkier

Welcome to my personal page! In case you don't know me, I am Sean Cantkier. I am a professional web designer with over 14 years of experience designing websites, internet consulting, programming, seo services and more. I taught myself web design after taking a vacation in 1997. I wanted a way to document and remember the trip and creating a website was just the answer. Since then I have developed a passion for both the graphic/aesthetic side of web design as well as the structured programming.

I was born and raised in South Florida (Boynton Beach to be exact). I attended Plumosa Elementary School, Congress Middle School, and then Santaluces High School.

After high school I attended Palm Beach Community College briefly with the ultimate goal to get to Gainesville and become a Florida Gator. I accomplished that goal quickly and am a proud alumni with a B.S. degree in Finance. (Go Gators! – don't hold that against me Georgia folks!)

I have had many interesting life experiences that has shaped me into the person I am today. These range from being a musician (bass guitar is my instrument of choice) to traveling to over 15 countries and most of the United States. I have worked as a web designer, programmer, and graphic artist at various companies that range from IT services to television production.

I have now lived in Atlanta for over 10 years and am married to an incredible woman and have two wonderful, beautiful children. They keep me busy and I enjoy every minute of it.

Anyway, thanks for reading about me!
